

Ms. Kirsty Hamilton

Associate Fellow, Chatham House

Ms. Kirsty Hamilton is a consultant on international climate change and energy policy, and currently leads the Renewable Energy Finance Project, as an Associate Fellow at Chatham House, working at the nexus of finance and the policy conditions for investment at both national and international levels.

With 18 years experience at the UN climate change negotiations as an NGO and Business Observer, she is on the Advisory Board of UNEP Finance Initiative's Climate Change Work; Steering Committee of 'REN 21' the international RE policy network; and in 2009 was invited to join the World Economic Forum's Global Action Council on Sustainable Energy. In 2005-2007 she was an Expert Reviewer of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC)'s Fourth Assessment Report.